Fujan Returns to ProcessPro

St. Cloud, Minn., July 23, 2010 -- ProcessPro, a national provider of ERP software solution for process manufacturers, has announced that Scott Fujan, its former VP of Sales, has returned to the organization.

“It is great to be back at ProcessPro. They are a rapidly growing company with a clear vision and promising future,” says Fujan. “The product is unparalleled in the industry and the dedication of the staff is without equal.”

ProcessPro has a long standing history of staffing the highest quality industry experts. Additionally, with excellent staff retention, ProcessPro industry experts have also become ProcessPro® software experts. The combination provides exceptional value to clients and prospects in being able to deliver world-class ERP solutions to the highly controlled process manufacturing industry.

“ProcessPro has a comprehensive market strategy and intuitive business plan to be extremely successful in this industry,” says Fujan.

Fujan’s extensive experience in the industry will help promote the organization and the sale of its superior product: ProcessPro® Premier. His relationship with the current client base, and ability to listen and understand prospective client’s needs are invaluable assets for both the clients and ProcessPro.

“Scott is a very driven and dynamic individual,” says Joe Blauert, President, ProcessPro. “His expertise in business development, and proven ability to sell large, complex enterprise software solutions will help catapult this sales organization to the next level,” said Blauert. “We are excited to have him back on board.”
