Amanda Humphrey Joins ProcessPro

St. Cloud, Minn., September 3, 2010 -- ProcessPro, a national provider of ERP software solutions for process manufacturers, has announced that Amanda Humphrey has joined the organization as a Product Consultant.

Amanda graduated from Saint Cloud State University in 2003 and has since worked for companies including Target Corporation, Merrill, and Rasmussen College. She has seven years experience in account management, marketing, and training and sales presentations.

“I am excited about the opportunity to work for an innovative company that remains the leading ERP software provider for the process manufacturing industry,” says Humphrey. “I am looking forward to contributing to the success of the team here at ProcessPro.”

Over the past seven years, Amanda has developed and maintained strong client relationships. She will bring her communication strengths and interpersonal skills to the ProcessPro sales team skill set.

“Building relationships in this type of service industry is key to client success,” says Joe Blauert, President of ProcessPro. “When clients make this kind of investment in their business, they are also investing in a lifetime relationship.”

ProcessPro has a long standing history of staffing the highest quality industry experts. Additionally, with excellent staff retention, ProcessPro industry experts have also become ProcessPro[®] software experts. The combination provides exceptional value to clients and prospects in being able to deliver world-class ERP solutions to the highly controlled process manufacturing industry.
